BARBER CONVICTED ON CHARGE FRIDAY

MURRAY

We hope for the best in the Hospital Auxiliary drive, sponsored by the Murray Woman's Club.

The Hospital might be able to get completely out of the red if the present campaign is successful. Everybody will profit because the hospital is not trying to make a profit, just enough to get along.

They have been hampered for the past several years because of the big bank note they have had to retire.

Business repainting and remodeling. Kuhn's expanding. Peoples Bank expanding. Lindsey's remodeling. Douglas Hardware repainting. A. B. Beale had a new awning over the Third street building. Sam Calhoun all moved in. Elroy Sykes in his new place. Z. B. B. in his new place next door to Elroy. Daisy Ann expanding new dining room, private.

Clayborne Jones repaving after the fire. Looks nice. Paving going on in the west side of town. The Murray Auction is paving their grounds.

Pre-war high at MSC was 1180, not its close to 1900.

The jungle behind the football stadium has been cleared out and a picnic parking lot has been prepared.

This will be useful not only for football games but for basketball games as well.

Looking out at the college is apt to be a real problem. Some like everyone that goes to school owns a car. When we were going to school only the wealthy boys had cars. (We didn't.)

The last birthday of the year rolled around this month and the six year old became seven. Time rolls right along and nothing you can do to stop it.

We get so involved in the everyday jobs and problems and obligations that we forget for a moment that it is our life that is slipping away, day by day.

Always on the lookout for something unusual, we saw a flock of blackbirds the other day take off from a neighboring yard and settle in a tree. One of the blackbirds had a tail that was completely white.

We saw a completely white sparrow sometime this summer and again we saw a bird with a flock of sparrows that was gaily colored.

Investigation Underway In Plane Crash Killing 66

By JERRY MARTIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
LARAMIE, Wyo., Oct. 8.—Three federal investigators started trying to find out today whether the worst civil air disaster in U.S. history was caused by a navigational mistake, the forces of nature or a pilot's attempt to save a few minutes by taking a shortcut over the mountains.

The disaster was the crash of a United Air Lines DC4, bound from New York to San Francisco, Wednesday, against 12,005-foot Medicine Bow Peak, killing 66 men, women and children. Recovery crews went back up the peak today for the third day to get more bodies. Only four have been brought down so far.

President W. A. Patterson of United Air Lines said in Chicago that the plane was 25 miles west of where the flight plan of the Normal Operational Ceiling

The flight plan which was filed was over the established route, which is over comparatively level ground. But it was longer than a hop of the mountains in a plane whose normal operational ceiling was not over 10,000 feet, though it could, in an emergency, fly 14,000 or 15,000 feet.

Cooke could have tried to save a few minutes by flying over the mountains, got lost in a storm and hit the peak. Or he could have accidentally got 25 miles off course. Or he could have been pulled into the mountains by the wind of a violent storm. He was 90 minutes behind schedule.

Frank M. McKivern of Seattle, Wash., a member of the Civil Aeronautics Board, and C. D. Williams and F. H. Fauke, Civil Aeronautics Board officials from Denver, will try to find out what caused the crash. They made a preliminary survey of the scene Friday.

Getting Bodies Down
The actual job of getting the bodies down the 1,500-foot side of the peak to a point where they can be put on pack horses, was being carried out by 25 mountain climbers, most of whom are university students.

Four bodies were brought down by hand before darkness closed in on the mountain at 3:30 p.m. and a strong wind came up. They were the bodies of the child of Mrs. Del. and of Deborah Tucker, 17-month-old daughter of Mrs. D. C. Tucker of Ogden, Utah, and of two unidentified adults.

So far, recovery workers have found only 51 bodies. There probably are others packed in the tail assembly of the plane, which is caught on a ledge, and at other points that have not been searched so far.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Medley Are New Comers To Murray
New comers to Murray are Mr. and Mrs. Larry Medley and children, Brenda, age four and Terrie Jo, thirteen months. The Medleys are coming to Murray from Paducah, of which they are both natives.

Mr. Medley, a registered nurse, has been employed by the Murray General Hospital and will begin his work there on Sunday, October ninth. Mrs. Medley is also a registered nurse but has no immediate plans for work at the present time.

Mr. Medley served with the United States Navy from April 1946 to September 5, 1955. He received his basic training at Bainbridge, Maryland, was stationed in San Diego, California and also saw twenty-three months duty in Korea aboard the LST-1138.

While visiting in the Douglas and Times office yesterday, Mr. Medley said he had not found a house in Murray for his family as of yet. He said he plans to move his family to Murray within the next three weeks.

Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Adams, 2403 Kentucky Ave., Paducah, will hold open house at their residence Sunday afternoon in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary. The hours will be from 2 to 5 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams were married October 8, 1905, at Crossland, Tenn. She is the former Miss Jewel Parks of Murray. Their son, W. M. Adams of Bardwell, and his wife will be co-hosts at the open house. Friends and relatives are invited. Invitations are not being sent.

City Council Endorses Public Health Tax District

The Murray City Council met last night in regular session with Mayor George Hart presiding. All councilmen were present with the exception of Guy Billington who is attending an insurance meeting on the West coast.

A routine session was held with several items coming up for discussion. The paving of Wells Boulevard was discussed, also the paving of Farmer Avenue. A delegation from Farmer Avenue was present to discuss the improvement of their street.

Principal Leon P. Miller of Douglas High School appeared before the council requesting assistance in the installation of lights on the football field at the school. The council had previously given $300 to the project and voted to add an additional $100.

The council voted to endorse the current campaign to add a County Health Department tax which would guarantee year to year operation of the department.

At the present time the Health Department goes to and asks money of the city council, fiscal court, city school board and county school board in order to raise funds for their budget. A small tax would give the department funds with which to operate on.

Average cost per taxpayer would be from 80 cents to $1.20 per year. R. L. Cooper brought the proposal before the council.

Parking will be restricted on the West side of North 16th street to a point about 320 feet North, to make it safer for school children at the Murray Training School.

An ordinance was passed by the council in compliance with an order of the circuit concerning

Optimism Is Watchword At MSC

"Optimism" is the watchword in the Murray State football camp even though the Racers will be facing their toughest opponent when they meet Memphis State this Saturday evening in Cutchin Stadium.

Reasons for the optimism are twofold: Memphis is new at the camp. Murray has employed the Split-T ever since Coach Fred Faurot came to MSC.

A shift in the backfield should bolster the strength in this department. Dick Utley and Bub Holt have been shifted to left half-back spots. Utley has moved over to left half from right half, and Holt to left half from quarterback.

Senior fullback Calvin Walls, sidelined since the U of L game with a leg injury may see limited action in the Memphis State game. Otis Elliott will be out with an injured knee, and it is now considered improbable that Phil Foster will get to play.

Over all, the Thorobreds will be in good physical condition for the game. The team's mental condition is improved and their outlook supports the general air of optimism.

Coach Faurot will probably start Don Heine and Don Sparks at ends, J. D. Burdin and Bill Hina at tackles, Al Giordano and Marlin Henley at guards, and Phil Chesner at center.

In the backfield, the lineup is Ronnie Phillips at quarterback, Dick Utley and Carl Walker at halfbacks, and Charles "Punk" Akers at fullback.

The game is a non-conference game. Last year Memphis State beat the Racers 34-6. In the series which dates back to 1926, Murray has won 10, lost 8, and one game was a tie. The Tigers of Memphis have won the last five years in a row.

Light Sentence Meted Out By Jury Of Six Citizens

A jury of six men yesterday rendered a verdict of guilty against J. Wilson Smith, Murray barber charged with "contributing to the delinquency of children."

He was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail and fined $100. In his closing remarks yesterday County Attorney Robert O. Miller had asked that Smith be restrained for one year, the limit. He could have been jailed for one year and had a $500 fine placed on him.

The jury deliberated for one hour and the court room was still crowded when the jury returned the verdict.

Testimony was heard almost all day yesterday. Before noon six adults and two girls testified.

After the court resumed session at 1:30 yesterday afternoon two more of the teen age girls testified.

One of them was thirteen and the other fourteen. Both said that Mr. Smith had never been guilty of misconduct with them and that he had given them from fifty cents to one dollar as many as four times in one week.

Leon Grogan, county attendance officer, was called to the stand to testify as to ages of the girls involved.

The final witness, called by the defense, was Mr. Smith, the defendant. He denied everything concerning any misconduct or indecency. He said that he looked on the children as a father.

He admitted lending his car to a fifteen year old girl for a period of "10 days to two weeks" and that he had to give her money before she would tell him where it was. He admitted paying the $5.00 or "a $19.50" fine for the girl when she was picked up for driving without a drivers license.

Concerning the written statement purportedly signed by a physician, Mr. Smith admitted he wrote the note himself for uses other than with the girls.

Mr. Smith explained the act, described by one of the girls as giving, by saying that he was giving the fifteen year old girl four dollars and its return for all festival band members.

Evening concerts will begin at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium. Prof. Josiah Darnall will conduct the junior band; Prof. Richard Farrell will lead the senior band. Deadline for applications is October 24 according to the festival chairman.

Charles W. Gray
Now At Fort Ord
Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Gray received word on Tuesday, October 4th, that their son, Pvt. Charles W. Gray, has reached Fort Ord, California, where he is stationed with the United States Armed Forces.

Enroute to Fort Ord from Paducah, Pvt. Gray made stops in Louisville and Fort Leonardwood. Mr. Pvt. Gray attended Florida Poly. He also attended David Lipscomb College in Nashville, one year, where he studied Theology. Christian College at Tampa, Florida.

Sugar Ray To Get Shot At Old Title Again

CHICAGO (AP) — Former middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson will get a chance at the age of 34 to try and regain his old title from the 27-year-old champion, Carl "Bobo" Olson, in the Chicago Stadium Nov. 4.

The fight was announced Thursday by the sponsoring International Boxing Club, who said it would be televised nationally with Chicago and the area of 150 miles surrounding blacked out, and also would be broadcast both locally and nationally.

Robinson has beaten Olson twice previously, scoring a 15 round knockout in Philadelphia Oct. 22, 1950 and winning a 15 round decision in San Francisco March 13, 1951.

However, Robinson retired from the ring after he lost to Joey Maxim in an attempt to win the world light heavyweight championship June 25, 1952, announcing that he would try to make his living as a dancer on Dec. 18, 1954.

He returned to the ring Nov. 29, 1954 with a six round exhibition win over Gene Burton and since then has had six fights on a comeback campaign. He lost to Ralph "Tex" Jones here Jan. 19 in his second comeback appearance, but won the other five bouts.

Robinson's last victory was a 10-round decision over Rocky Castellani in San Francisco Oct. 22, one of the three victims of Olson in previous title defenses.

Olson's other victories in defending his 160 pound crown were over Kid Gavilan and Pierre Langlois. In all Olson has won 65 of 72 bouts. His last defeat was June 22 when he was knocked out by Archie Moore in the third round of a bout for the light-heavyweight title. Since then Olson has beaten Jimmy Martinez and Joey Giambra.

Archie Moore Is Still Contender

NEW YORK (AP) — Archie Moore is still ranked top heavyweight contender in today's issue of the Ring Magazine's ratings, perhaps the early harbinger of a return title fight with Rocky Marciano next June.

Although old Archie was knocked out in the ninth round on Sept. 21 by Marciano, "the fighter of the month," his great stand against the unbeaten champion kept him atop the contenders' heap.

Big Bob Baker and Tommy "Hurricane" Jackson remained at number two and number three, respectively, but Nino Valdes of Cuba rose from seventh rung and replaced Don Cockell of England to fourth position because of his KO over Cockell.

Moore, Baker, Jackson and Valdes are the "big four" proposed by promoter Jim Norris for a contenders' elimination tournament.

Frank Lane Shops For Field Manager

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Frank Lane, new general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, went shopping today for a field manager, and additions to "a very fine nucleus" that would make the club a pennant contender in 1956.

He said he had three men under consideration for manager and revealed the names of two of them, crosstown Harry Walker and Freddie Hutchinson, pilot of the Cardinals in the Pacific Coast League.

Lane, 59-year-old former general manager of the Chicago White Sox, said the terms of the three-year contract he signed Thursday with the Cardinals was "mutually satisfactory."

Second Guessing

by BOB GILBERT

Ty Holland's Murray High Tigers ventured to Bowling Green last night. The Tigers seem to be improving since last Friday's riot... the 34-6 route of Fulton. But tonight they will probably be without the services of their big left tackle, John Koertner, who pulled a leg muscle this week in practice.

Murray State will be ready for Memphis State this Saturday. The many injuries which hurt us against Tenn. Tech and Eastern are one-by-one returning to the active list. Calvin Wall, who was injured against Louisville, is back in uniform at the fullback position. Carl Walker's knee and Dick Utley's ankle are at a new stage of perfect recovery.

However, one big mental factor is... Phil Foster, "Phantom" Phil was in uniform last night taking a light workout, and although he probably won't see any action, it gives him a bit of encouragement to know he is around.

Talked with Roy Stewart, Murray State College Athletic Director, last night at practice. And Mr. Stewart old me, "I told Fred, I've got that feeling this week." Mr. Stewart means, of course, that he thinks the Racers will throw up more than Memphis asked for, and in turn, send them home with a defeated Memphis club.

I rate the Army Cadets this week as the number one team in the nation. In all probability, I could get some argument on this point. At any rate, Army is on top. Here are the other top ten teams:

1. Army (2-0-0)
2. T.C.U. (3-0-0)
3. Michigan (2-0-0)
4. Notre Dame (2-0-0)
5. Maryland (2-0-0)
6. Texas A&M (2-1-0)
7. U.C.L.A. (2-1-0)
8. Wisconsin (2-0-0)
9. Ga. Tech (2-0-0)
10. South Calif. (2-0-0)
11. Auburn (2-0-0)
12. Arkansas (2-0-0)
13. Penn. State (1-1-0)
14. Mich. State (1-1-0)
15. Rice Inst. (1-0-1)
16. Princeton (2-0-0)
17. Oklahoma (2-0-0)
18. Kentucky (2-1-0)
19. Ohio State (1-1-0)

Columnar Look Just For Men

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK 10 — If there is a man at your house who laughs when you tried to squeeze into one of those Paris shapes like the A-line or the H-line, tell him about "the columnar look."

It's all his. From Italy, the home of fattening food, and filled-out movie queens, come the news that men should strive for a slimmer-down look in their clothing.

Gaetano Savini, one of Italy's leading designers of men's clothing, previewed "the columnar look" here recently and prepared to start off across the nation to spread the word. Some two dozen stores in as many American cities already have agreed to sell Savini-designed clothes.

Keeps Women In Mind
Savini is a cheerful, uncolumnar shaped man who used to work in a ladies' ready-to-wear store. He says men really do like to please women with their wardrobes, so he always keeps women in mind when he is creating a male style.

The Italian-imported styles respect every man's right to look like a he-man and to be conservative, not conspicuous. There was one bright red wool sports jacket with a matching visor cap and a different-looking top coat that came just to the knees — but most of the other Italian innovations were subtle enough to satisfy the most reluctant male shopper.

Trousers Are Cuffless
To accent the slim column shape trousers are cuffless and tapered to the skinniest legged look of the Edwardian dandy — suit coats are slightly shorter and loosely fitted, with natural shoulders and narrow lapels and hat bands are narrow.

Savini often has side vents on suit coats, and he varies from one, two and three-button single-breasted.

Dark Intent

By RAE FOLEY

SYNOPSIS
Death of Roger Brindle, an extremely popular syndicated newspaper columnist who wrote of the people he knew in his New England hometown of Stowville, opens new chapters in the lives of his young widow, Carol, and the people of whom he had written so well. These include Albert and Beale Kibbee and their son, Clyde, and Joe and Ethel Battery, all of whom live in cottages on the grounds of the Brindle home. Another cottage occupant is Shandy Slove, a reporter and former owner of the estate. On the heels of learning of a cryptic note regarding Roger's death, Shandy is told by Carol that a ghost writer, Lois Fleming, is going to help her write a series of stories on Roger. Shandy writes in Stowville 10 days before she is expected. Paula Case, Roger's niece, tells Lois she is to occupy the cottage in which Roger had at first lived, and she reminds the writer that she supplied the "intuition" for their long search for her war-missing husband who was killed.

CHAPTER TEN
SHANDY dismissed the question of Lois' early arrival and went back to the point that interested him most. "Do you use that intuition of yours in ghosting?"

"Oh, don't be ridiculous. Ghost-writing is merely telling another person's experience as he would tell it if he were trained. There's too much nonsense about it. People who live at first hand don't often have a talent for communicating experience. The Churchills are rare birds. After all, writing is a craft like any other. There's no more reason that a doctor or a lawyer or a politician or an explorer should be a writer than that he should be a musician. An honest ghost reflects his subject. That's all there is to it."

"But he also has to understand him."

Shandy was still studying her. "You have been ill," he said, and there was more friendliness in his voice.

Pneumonia, she told him. She was all right now except that she had not quite picked up her strength. A few weeks of country air ought to do the trick.

His eyes went around the room. "They haven't fixed the place up. That cracked windowpane should have been removed. They haven't even emptied the ashtrays."

He walked across the floor, his steps faintly uneven, and shook up the pillows on the long couch which still held the impression of Roger Brindle's head, as though driving from the cottage the last vestige of the man's presence. The simple gesture seemed queerly rubric. Something dropped to the floor as he moved the cushions, something that had lodged in the frame of the couch.

Outside the window a shadow moved and Lois started. Her senses still weren't what they might be, she thought, and there had been a future quality about that movement.

Shandy said, "Joe Battery has come to replace the windowpane. And high time. With the place locked up, nothing could be done before."

They watched while the small man outside scraped putty and lifted the glass into the ground, taking quick sidelong looks at Lois and Shandy and around the cottage. When he had gone, Shandy said, "Carol asked me to bring you to lunch. It's a bit early but let's get out of here and walk for awhile."

Lois opened her handbag and collected a handkerchief, cigarette and compact. When she looked up for her and the thing that had dropped from the couch was gone, the thing that looked like a bullet, Shandy steered her around the side of the cottage. Questions hovered on her lips. She wanted to know why he had told the house he loved and now lived "like a hermit. She wanted to know why he had not married the girl to whom he had been engaged seven years before, the girl to whom he had been afraid to return because of what the war had done to him: his lameness, his mutilated face. And she dared not ask her questions of the stranger he had become.

District Women's Clubs To Meet At Beaver Dam Soon

The forty-second annual meeting of the First District of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs will be held Thursday, October 13, in the Beaver Dam Baptist Church at Beaver Dam, it was announced recently by Mrs. Carlos B. Embury of Beaver Dam, district governor.

Highlighting the meeting will be the election of a governor to serve for a term of two years. Ballots have been sent out for nominations.

Luncheon will be served at noon. Mrs. Embury said. Reservations should be made with Mrs. R. D. Ridley of Harford, she added.

A special table has been reserved for junior club members at the luncheon, with a business session also on schedule for them.

Slated for a top spot on the day's program will be a panel discussion on "Federation in Action" by state officers.

First and second prizes will be awarded clubs having the best year books for the club year 1954-55. Judging will be on neatness, information and types of programs. Both printed and mimeographed books will be judged, with first and second prizes to be awarded in each group.

A new feature will be a display of home crafts with the state chairmen of the home department in charge. Members have been asked to bring their craftwork to the meeting.

Each club is also entitled to one entry in the table decorations contest. The arrangements to be judged on originality and suitability, not elaborateness, should have an autumn motif, it was specified.

Woman Has Double Trouble In Marriage
BOGOTA, Columbia — A 25-year-old woman had double troubles today. She appealed to police to help her determine which of identical twins is her husband and which is the father of her two children.

The woman told police that the fact that she was unable to tell her husband from his brother at first was amusing. But she added, it wasn't so funny when she realized that the twin had posed as the husband and been intimate with her.

Jealousy between the brothers and the uncertainty of whether her children had different fathers finally forced her to seek police help.

Charlotte Can Compete Now

NEW YORK UP—Charlotte McLeod could compete favorably today with Marilyn Monroe or Jane Russell in a sweater girl contest.

This was considered rather unusual because only a year ago Charlotte was Charles McLeod, a former soldier from Dyersburg, Tenn. But Charles wanted to become a woman and following the course set by Christine Jorgensen underwent a "sex-change" operation in Copenhagen, Denmark in 1964.

Charlotte was not completely satisfied with the metamorphosis, however, and underwent further surgery two months ago at the hands of a woman plastic surgeon in New York, Dr. Elsie LaRoe.

Using a technique to replace natural tissue, a method developed during World War II for treatment of wounded soldiers, Dr. LaRoe made a breast implant of polyester, a plastic.

Dr. LaRoe's husband said Charlotte underwent breast surgery because "she was trying to find herself, to get a body to match her mind and feelings."

From all appearances, Dr. LaRoe's husband said, the operation was successful. Charlotte's bust now measures 38 inches, her waist 26 and her hips 37. She is six feet tall in high heels.

Charlotte said she never had any intention of following Christine Jorgensen's night club trail but may change her mind. She said she had been fired from two jobs because everyone stared at her and employers obviously considered her a disturbing factor.

College Presbyterian Church will meet at the church at two-thirty o'clock.

Tuesday, October 11

Recipe Of The Week

Although apples are scarce, one should not be deprived of them entirely. In this unusual recipe, the chopped apples are mixed into the dough. The apples will help provide moisture, so that additional liquid is not called for, says Mrs. Pearl Haak, specialist in foods at the University of Kentucky.

Spicy Apple Pudding

1 c sugar
1 c flour
1 t soda
1 t cinnamon
1 t cloves
4 T melted shortening
1 egg well beaten
3 large tart apples
Sift dry ingredients together, then add well-beaten egg and melted shortening. Peel and chop large tart apples and mix into the dough. Spread on greased baking pan and bake 45 minutes at 325 degrees. Serve slightly warm with whipped cream.

Misc: Fried chicken, corn pudding, green beans, cabbage slaw, corn bread, butter and spicy apple pudding.

Filter cloths from glass coffee makers stay fresh if they are soaked in a baking soda solution between usings.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Wilber DeJarnatt, Mrs. Herman Ellis, Mrs. Glindell Reeves, and Mrs. Bennie Simmons.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Remove the cellophane wrapping from new lamp shades; otherwise, the heat from the light bulbs may cause them to stretch and draw, pulling out of shape.

Instead of throwing away scrap pieces of soap, store them until several have accumulated. Then run them through your meat grinder and use as soap flakes.

Instead of ironing tea towels, fold them neatly and run them through a wringer.

Brushing molds with salad oil for any gelatin salads or desserts makes removing the results easier.

Nail polish can be used to paint wooden buttons for dress trimmings.

It pays to let yeast bread dough "rest" for about 10 minutes before molding it. Dough that has rested results in better shaped rolls and loaves.

Wax paper rubbed on the rim of a bottle will prevent dripping.

To make sure leaf vegetables are cleaned thoroughly, immerse the min cold salt water and then rinse several times in fresh water.

Rust stains on clothing often will give in to a soaking in lemon juice, after which the stain should be sprinkled with salt and the garment dried in sunlight.

U.K. poultry specialists say now is the time to clean and repair brooder houses for next year's chicks.

The Kentucky Experiment Station says $25 worth of potato brought increased tobacco yields worth $388.

When Mrs. Louis Kelly of Washington county was unable to attend her homemakers club meeting, other members taught her how to braid, blend colors and lace the rug that is now room size. The black shank tobacco disease was spread along almost all streams in Garrard county; floods also spread the disease.

Broiler chicken houses are being built on about 20 farms in Pulaski county.

A convenient business center in the kitchen was built by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rudy of Davies county, a Farm and Home Development family.
